The football casualty list is growing alarmingly. The game never will be real safe.

Columbus day is placed on the shelf along with Bennington Battle day. And so soon, too!

The present condition of Vermont forests is such as to make forest fires easily possible. Therefore, take care!

Another thrill of a western trip is to have a 20-ton boulder crash down on your train—that is, if you live to feel the thrill.

In Boston yesterday: Flag-raising witnessed by 5,000 people, baseball game by 35,520. Still that's no reflection on Boston's patriotism.

If one could imagine 600,000 refugees dumped into the city of Boston, the plight of some of the cities in Holland might be appreciated.

Paris ought to utilize its Eiffel tower as a lookout to discern the approach of aeroplanes and Zeppelins. The tower is high enough to give a rather good look.

The Dartmouth college student who shot a fellow-student at night, mistaking the white-clad figure for a rabbit, has something to learn that he won't find at college.

It's surprising what interest is taken in the world's series of baseball. There is not a backwoods district anywhere in the eastern section of the country where the pulse does not move faster as a result of the excitement.

We extend our condolences to newspaper workers everywhere who had to go through the nervous strain of an extra inning world's series baseball game. The tension in hundreds of offices on Monday afternoon was stretched almost to the snapping point by reason of the suspense in waiting for the news of the final break in the big deadlock between the Boston Braves and the Philadelphia Athletics, together with the fever to get the editions on the street at the earliest possible moment. Not all the excitement was on the field at Fenway park by any means.

THE BIG GUNS WIN.

The capitulation of the fortified city of Antwerp after only 10 days' siege by the Germans illustrates the powerlessness of walls against the attack of the great modern siege guns. Antwerp was a city reckoned as one of the best defended in Europe, with successive lines of forts barring the approaches and with garrisons considered amply sufficient to operate the defending guns and act as supporting infantry. On paper, as they say in calculating chances in sporting events, Antwerp looked very strong; and, indeed, some writers had gone to the limit of asserting that months would be required by a large attacking army of quarter of a million men in order to break down the defenses of the place. Antwerp felt itself fairly secure, and, in consequence, thousands of refugees from other Belgian cities had flocked there for protection from the Germans.

Yet when the crucial time came it took a German army only 10 days to batter down the forts before Antwerp and to force the surrender of the city. Just how large the attacking army was cannot be ascertained at this time, but it is not at all probable that the kaiser would spare quarter of a million men from the front faced by the allies in France in order to invest a Belgian city many miles to the north of his main position. Undoubtedly the investing force was markedly smaller than that reckoned by war writers as necessary to capture the city. But the attacking army was not lacking in guns, guns of large size and of tremendous carrying power; and hence a large army was not needed. All the army had to do was to wait for the big siege guns to batter down the defending forts until the garrisons were forced to evacuate and retreat and then to advance and take possession of the forts, after which the occupation of the city was easily accomplished. It has been well said that the events of the war thus far have proven the superiority of guns over defenses. The same might have been said also had the Germans been allowed to get near enough to Paris to batter at the defending forts of that city. Practically unrestrained and unhampered as they were in the attack on Antwerp, the Germans would have been successful also against Paris, but it is likely that the army of the allies would not have been quiescent while the Germans were getting in position to use the guns.

DEATH OF MRS. MARTHA STONE.

For 42 Years Her Home Had Been in Cabot.

Martina M. (Badger) Stone passed away at her late home in Cabot Monday evening, Oct. 5, after five days' illness with pneumonia. She was tenderly cared for by her daughter, Mrs. P. D. Ladd of Barre, and her sister, Mrs. John Crane of Cabot, and neighbors. She was a great and patient sufferer during her illness, conscious to the last and a firm believer in the hereafter.

In her last hours she offered prayer for her entire family and many times said, "Sweet sleep in Jesus." She expressed herself in very kindly words towards all her family and those with whom she was acquainted. She was respected and loved by all who knew her. A home soul, a peace-maker, she was charitable to a fault and ever thoughtful for those around her.

Mrs. Stone was born in West Danville, Sept. 11, 1848, and resided there until 42 years ago, when she was married and came to the farm where she had always resided until her decease. Her son, Hartwell A. Stone, resides on the home farm. She leaves one brother, Henry T. Badger of St. Johnsbury.

Mrs. Stone's death occurred Monday at 9:20 o'clock. Her daughter, Mrs. Rowland R. Preston of Montpelier, Pa., failed to arrive before her death; also her son, Matt C. Stone of Springfield, Mass.

The floral tributes from her family and friends were many and very beautiful. The kindness, sympathy and assistance shown by the neighbors was much appreciated by the family, who wish to take this opportunity to express their gratitude towards them for the same.

Interment took place in the family lot in the cemetery nearby.

 Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Stone,
 Mr. and Mrs. P. D. Ladd,
 Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Preston.

MONTPELIER.

A son was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Murray.

The basement of St. Augustine's church, which was left uncompleted when the church was built, is to be finished off at once to furnish rooms for meetings of various kinds. There will be one big room, to be used as a hall of entertainments. The expense of work on the basement is to be met by subscriptions from members of the parish and societies connected with the church.

The Sunday school of the People's Evangelical church will observe rally day next Sunday. An especially interesting program is prepared and all members and attendants of the church and school are urged to be present, as well as those who have no regular church or Sunday school home. The service will begin at 12 o'clock noon.

Rev. S. F. Blomfield is ill with tonsillitis.

W. Henry Worcester came from Lowell, Mass., Saturday to spend his 85th birthday anniversary in Montpelier, a custom he has followed for some years. He says he shall come again for his 90th birthday if his health will permit. Not a male person that he knew in childhood does he find left after all these years. At Christ church, Sunday evening, after the service, he was given a reception. For many years he was foreman of street work in Lowell.

The Montpelier Country club golf players defeated the Dartmouth team Saturday by a score of 5 to 2. A return match will be played at Hanover later.

At the Sunday afternoon service at the jail F. E. Gleason was the speaker and Miss Anna Hennesberry sang two solos and gave a reading.

Last evening at his home on Main street Leon Boyte was given a surprise party. About 30 young people, half coming from Barre, gathered to bid him farewell before his leaving for Boston, where he is employed as a sailor on a battleship. Games, cards, and music constituted the evening's entertainment. Also during the evening a light lunch of ice cream and cake was served. At a late hour the party broke up, all wishing Mr. Boyte a safe journey and voyage.

He is at present attached to the gunners' department at Fort Banks at Wintthrop, Mass.

A feature was the swearing in as an associate justice of James C. McReynolds, who, when the court adjourned last June, faced the tribunal as attorney general. He succeeds the late Justice Lorton.

"CONFESSION"

Mrs. Carman Will Fight to Introduce the Dying Statement of Mrs. Hanley.

New York, Oct. 13.—In the Carman trial, which will begin a week from yesterday, George M. Levy, counsel for Mrs. Carman, will introduce the dying confession of Mrs. Helen Hanley, alias Mary Cohen, who declared in a Buffalo hospital last August that she killed Mrs. Bailey.

In her confession to Chief of Police Lyons of Buffalo, Mrs. Hanley said that, accompanied by a man whose name she refused to give, she went to Freeport, L. I., intending to shoot Dr. Carman. By mistake, Mrs. Bailey was the victim. Mrs. Hanley said she wanted revenge. This confession she repudiated, however, when confronted by Dr. Carman on her death-bed, although she identified him.

BORDER SHOOTING TRIVIAL.

Wilson So Considers Firing on Mexicans Sunday.

Washington, Oct. 13.—Firing across the international border at Naco, Ariz., Sunday, by American patrol troops and Mexican soldiers, was characterized by President Wilson yesterday as a "local difficulty." Apparently he considered that the incident had no bearing upon the general situation in Mexico and was not inclined to attach much importance to it.

The president said that while arrangements were being made to withdraw the United States forces from Vera Cruz "immediately," the details of the transfer of municipal government must first be arranged. He added that the city could not be left to take care of itself and the United States was obliged to proceed with proper caution.

News came today that the Carranza garrison of Naco, Sonora, is subjected to fire from Maytore's Naqui Indians, who have worked around to the American line and directed their fire on the garrison.

Every voter in Vermont who believes in his State and its future should vote the REPUBLICAN STATE TICKET

A better, stronger or more deserving Republican State ticket has never been presented the voters of the State. Not one honest charge of incompetency, unfaithfulness, disloyalty or corruption can be made against any candidate whose name is upon the Republican State ticket, every one of whom has served the State in important positions intelligently and honestly.

Throughout the State generally among the voters of all parties approval is given of all the candidates on the Republican State ticket—a ticket that spells VICTORY at the polls on November 3, and with the assurance that Vermont will go FORWARD and not BACKWARD during the years 1915 and 1916.

Vermont continues to demand its BETTER ROADS—its BETTER and IMPROVED INSTITUTIONS—its PUBLICITY DEPARTMENT, that has and is attracting capital to its farms and manufacturing industries and bringing thousands of visitors to the State each season—its BETTER EDUCATIONAL ADVANTAGES, and a continuation of a PROSPERITY that has characterized the Republican administrations, state and national, of the past.

PROSPERITY YESTERDAY, TODAY AND TOMORROW:

is the slogan of every candidate whose name is upon the Republican State ticket.

Your vote for the ticket is a duty you owe to yourself.
